

About Documenter DB

 Important ***

It is imperative that you familiarize yourself with this Documenter process before you start exploring this application ***

A documenter call button has been added to each screen layout within this application. It is a small, yellow ? (question mark symbol), usually found in the upper Left-hand corner of each screen layout. Pressing it will call up the Documenter DB and allow you make suggestions, document problems, etc. You can make general comments or one's specific to that screen. If your comment is screen specific, there is a very visible button labeled "Press To Stamp & Comment " that you press and it will stamp the Name of the DB and the Name of the Screen Layout from where you came. Then proceed to make your comment.

This documenting process will enable me to know exactly what you were referring to, without you having to know the names of the DB's and the names of their screen layouts. Once you are none commenting, press the "return" button and you will be returned to your place of origin.

If your comment is not "Layout Specific", press the button labeled, "Press to just Comment", and proceed to make your comments. Once you are none commenting, press the "return" button and you will be returned to your place of origin.

Should you need to refer back to the screen you are attempting to comment on, just choose "return" within the Documenter DB and your point of origin screen will be visible. To get back to the Documenter DB, just press the call button.

There is a help selection within the documenter DB that allows you to advise me on the type of help you think that the topic you are commenting on might require! Please use this.

When you are done testing this application, you can snail mail or email me the Documenter database. .

Thank you for participating in this!